VICARIOUS SUFFERING

Porto Ricans Who Are Willing to Work Rebuffed.

F. J. Dutra has been investigating the condition of the Porto Rican colony in and about Honolulu and has come to the conclusion that many of them are being crushed morally and physically under the weight of sins committed by the hardened criminals of the same nationality.

Food, work, clothing and even homes are among the necessities of life which he claims to have found lacking among many better disposed Porto Ricans, and for them he makes an appeal to the people of Honolulu to be lenient and to give them some assistance.

It is work these people want. It is the lack of it, the rebuffs they receive from people in general, which he claims is driving them to stealing and the women to depravity.

Plantations now refuse to take them as laborers and drive them away with curses, so says Mr. Dutra. Householders drive them from their gates whenever they put in an appearance. The result is moneyless pockets, hungry babes and desperate women.

Mr. Dutra says no one knows the amount of misery prevailing amongst the Porto Ricans. In his rounds among the poorer habitations of Honolulu he has found Porto Ricans living in dismal shacks. Children in them are almost naked. One evening he found a young woman crouched near the door of a squalid Chinese shack. He spoke to her in Spanish, noticing she was a Porto Rican, and asked her why she was there. She answered that she was waiting to get something to eat from the Chinaman. She was waiting for a piece of fruit or something—no matter how rotten it might be, it would be acceptable. She wanted the food for her little child, which she said had had nothing to eat all day. She was asked whether she had a husband. She answered in the affirmative, adding also that he had been out all day from 7 o'clock in the morning looking for any kind of work at any price that he might get food. He had come home penniless and she had left him crying at their home.

The woman also told Mr. Dutra that they had walked to a plantation near Honolulu carrying the child and had asked for work, but were ordered away. They started for the city again and tramped in through the rain and mud, all three arriving soaked to the skin.

Mr. Dutra found a young man, who had been employed as a clerk in Porto Rico at $40 a month, but was induced to come to Hawaii, by what Mr. Dutra terms were the rosy reports of the agents who were there. He was unable to do plantation work and injured one of his hands. Since then he has made effort after effort to obtain decent and steady employment, but, being a Porto Rican, he has been barred. He was almost in a starving condition when Mr. Dutra found him and investigated his case.

"The matter is a serious one," said Mr. Dutra yesterday. "Children are dying for want of food and good women are going to the bad because starvation stares them in the face, and all this in a community which professes to be charitable. Not all Porto Ricans are bad. True, many of the laborers brought here came out of jails and prisons and deserve to be behind bars. Miranda, the man recently executed, came out of a prison and he was a bad man."

"Something should be done to ameliorate the condition of the worthy ones."

FINE KONA PROPERTY TO BE SOLD TODAY

The Judiciary building at 12 o'clock noon today will be the meeting place, where will congregate a large number of capitalists and stockmen who will attend the sale of the fee simple and leased lands, cattle and chattels, to be sold under a commissioner's sale in the matter of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., vs. W. C. Achi and others.

These properties are in the district of South Kona, Hawaii, and comprise an equipped ranch with several hundred head of cattle and horses. Several thousand acres are in fee simple and a large area is under leasehold on very low rentals. The upper portion of the ranch is covered with groves of valuable koa trees, besides a large area of ohia trees.

A large portion of the lands is suitable for general agricultural purposes and for coffee cultivation. Here is a desirable investment, that will be sold at whatever price it will bring.

NEW PRISON WING IS ABOUT READY

The new wing to the Oahu Prison is about completed and in a week will be in readiness for the reception of inmates. Federal prisoners, witnesses and persons convicted of misdemeanors, etc., will be confined in the wing.

CHILDREN'S OPERETTA

Promises to be One of Best Local Stage Successes.

Miss Martins is on the Sierra from San Francisco, arriving here on Wednesday the 16th, when rehearsals for the children's operetta will immediately commence. "The House that Jack Built" was given its initial performance about three years ago up at the Armour Institute in Chicago under the patronage of such well-known women as Mrs. Potter Palmer, Mrs. Lowden (nee Pullman), Mrs. Wm. Nixon, Mrs. Milward Adams, Mrs. Mark Kimball and others, for one of the hospitals of that city. The performance went without a hitch and a large sum was realized for charity. From Chicago Miss Martins started on a tour, coming west via St. Louis, Lexington, Omaha, Louisville, Kansas City and other cities where she has given the operetta to crowded houses at every place. Press notices from all the above towns and others indicate splendid success.

Miss Martins possesses the rare charm of interesting the children and of training them in what most of us would call a marvellously short time. Each child is an important factor in the production, as each one represents something. There are the sweet peas in dainty tarlatan frocks of green, white and pink set off by pea blossom hats and attended by their green blade knights in green tights and tall, peaked hats! Then the star and moon beams, the clouds, the poppies, milkweeds, daisies and blackeyed susans in gauzy flower-like costumes.

Sixteen High School cadets do the honor as King Cole's guards. Then the four and twenty blackbirds, the three black crows, the humpty dumpty Mother Goose, the old woman with her shoe full of so many children she doesn't know what to do. The three blind mice caper all over the stage till the farmer's wife appears and they all scamper away in great glee.

It is safe to say that this performance will surprise the town in scenic and spectacular points. One very interesting feature is the fact that Miss Martins will conduct the orchestra herself. The orchestra will be composed of the leading amateur players of society, most of whom have already been pleased to help in this affair.

There are only a few adult parts; the most important work is to be done by the children.

Mrs. C. B. Cooper, who is seldom seen nowadays in amateur theatricals, has kindly consented to play Mother Goose. Gerrit Wilder, who years ago used sometimes to appear for sweet charity's sake, plays "Old King Cole." The Queen of Hearts will be taken by Mrs. Fred. Waterhouse. Those who saw her in Lady Ursula know what to expect. Miss Alice Jones of Minstrel Fame will play the "Man in the Moon." Mrs. Hoffmann has provided for understudies so that in case of sickness or any unavoidable happenings the performance will not of necessity be postponed.

MANAGER BIDGOOD AS A SMALL FARMER

Manager and Mrs. Bidgood of the Volcano House are in town for a fortnight's vacation. Their fine health shows how well the up-hill air agrees with people who take enough of it. Besides keeping a good hotel, Manager Bidgood is proving what can be done on the upper levels in market-gardening and to some extent in small farming. His garden is a marvel, as the Volcano House garden always has been, his corn is fifteen feet high and he raises forage grasses enough to keep his stock fed, thereby cutting off a large item of expense. Pigs, chickens, turkeys and ducks flourish on his place. A few lessons to the Kula people could be imparted at the Volcano House.

GEO. H. PARIS AND FAMILY LEAVE

George H. Paris and family leave in the bark Andrew Welch this morning for San Francisco. Mr. Paris has been an active business man here for many years. After being manager of the Hawaiian Gazette for a considerable period he went into the real estate business, in that capacity being the pioneer in developing the McCully tract. He also conducted an agency for gasoline engines, placing many of them in establishments where moderate power was used. Mrs. Paris has been a highly esteemed member of local society. The whole family will be missed by the community at large.
